Tromsdalen valley's forgotten memories - 6,1 km

Fast track to the Tromsdalstinden peak, you say? Far from! In Tromsdalen you can go treasure hunting for Sami shelter foundations from when the "Lap-camp" in Tromsdalen was among the region's biggest tourist attractions. You can visit the special shooting facilities. Along the riverbank you can look for 200-year-old mill stones - remnants of Tromsø's oldest industrial history, and see traces of the railway that freighted brick from the brickworks in Elvestrand. Tromsdal's secrets await you - come and discover them!

Buses 20, 22, 24 to Kraftforsyninga.
Buss 26 to Ecomsenteret

At Tromsdalen cemetery or Tromstun school. Limited p-space at Grinda.

Path with relatively good surface and wheelchair accessible to the rustic shelter.

Tromsdalen valley's forgotten memories

Trail description

1 Rail foundations linked to the brickworks at Elvestrand. 2 Memorial to Yugoslavian partisans executed during the WWII. 3 Two Sami shelter foundations from the Hurris family's old summer residence in Tromsdalen. 4 The shooting facilities are well worth a visit. Walk along the planked paths that snake through marshes and woods. Note: No passage during shooting! 5 Old bridge along Gruveveien road. 6 On this dry ridge towards the river bank was once a Sami residence. If you look hard you may notice outlines of the foundations. 7 Reservoir dam. From here the drinking water to Tromsdalen was procured.
